

BODIES WILL BE INTERRED TO-DAY

Remains of Claude and Floyd Allen Reach Old Home of Dead Mountaineer.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
 Raleigh, Va., March 29.—The bodies of Claude and Floyd Allen, who were electrocuted in Richmond yesterday, arrived at Mount Airy at noon to-day, being accompanied by Victor Allen. When the train pulled in, fully fifteen hundred people from the surrounding country were at the depot. A party of friends from Carroll County were there, and two double-horse wagons were on hand to convey the bodies to the late home of Floyd Allen, ten miles distant.
 No time was lost in transferring the bodies from the train to the wagons, and the procession left Mount Airy a few minutes after the departure of the train.
 No flowers adorned the caskets, and no demonstration was made.
 Victor Allen, who accompanied the remains from Richmond, had up wonderfully, although he seems deeply affected.
 The funerals of Floyd and Claude will take place to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, in the old family burial plot on the farm of William Jones, not far from the Allen homestead.

 (Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
 Wheeling, W. Va., March 29.—Wheeling is suffering from a disastrous flood. Fifteen thousand people have been driven from their homes and are either being cared for by friends out of the flood zone or by the city officials.
 The water has reached a height of fifty-one feet and three inches. The only dry spot in the city is in the district between the city hall and the river, and a most deplorable condition prevails. Several persons have been drowned.

HOUSTON WARD SENTENCED.
 Gets One Year in Penitentiary for Trying to Pass Bogus Check.
 (Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
 Galveston, Va., March 29.—Houston Ward, alias Charles Warden, who was arrested here last week for attempting to pass a bogus check for $130 on Dr. A. G. Pless, who had done some dental work for him, was arraigned before the court at Independence early this week and entered a plea of guilty, and was sentenced to one year in the penitentiary. Information from other places where he is known is to the effect that he is a professional at the business. He made his home in Houston, Texas, in Grayson County, although in moderate circumstances, has made good several former checks and has prevented his prosecution on former occasions.

GETTING FEW DAYS' REST
 Capital Practically Deserted by Members of Virginia Delegation.
 (Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
 Washington, March 29.—With practically the entire membership of the Virginia delegation in Congress at home for a few days' rest before the extra session opening, the Capitol was today dark.
 Senator March is almost the only member of the delegation who was unable to get away for a limited time. He has been so busily absorbed in congressional affairs that he has remained at his desk every day. This afternoon, however, he left Washington for Charlottesville, but he will return in a day or two.
 Congressman Flood, who has been away for several days, was about the only Virginian stirring about the Capitol when the Times-Dispatch correspondent made the rounds of that place to-day. Although the day was a quiet one here, time was found by the friends of Peyton Cochrane, of Staunton, to elect him to the position of President of the Virginia delegation in Congress at Independence. He has been endorsed by Judge Quarles and by Stephen H. Timmerlake.

DECLARES REPORT UNFAIR TO ELLYSON

Judge Wingfield Issues Statement Relating Incidents of Midnight Conference.

NO FORMAL ARGUMENT
 Statement Made to Lieutenant-Governor Pending Report of Attorney-General.

In a statement to The Times-Dispatch yesterday, Judge J. R. Wingfield, of the State Corporation Commission, relates the incidents of the midnight conference that was held on Thursday night by Allen sympathizers in a last frantic attempt to secure the mitigation of the death sentences by appeal to Lieutenant-Governor Elyson.

Judge Wingfield, it appears from the statement, believed the reports of the conference as printed in the newspapers, have placed Mr. Elyson in an unjustly awkward position, since it has been made to appear that he shared in some remote degree the responsibility for the execution of the Allens.

The fact that it was at his request that Mr. Elyson joined the meeting at the residence of John P. Branch, Judge Wingfield believes, calls for his statement, which follows:

"I participated in the meeting Thursday night at Mr. John P. Branch's residence, and as at my request, made in person to Governor Elyson, he came over to Mr. Branch's, I think it is due to him and the public that I should make a statement.

About 8 o'clock I was called over the phone and asked to come to the residence of Mr. John P. Branch at 10 o'clock. When I reached there I found several gentlemen present, and later others came in. After some little conversation I was requested to take charge of the meeting in an informal way, though not as chairman.
 "Upon my suggestion, it was agreed that owing to the age and feeble health of Mr. Branch, and the fact that Elyson should be invited to come down and hear what we had to say about the situation. I at once went over to the house of Governor Elyson and stated to him the object of our meeting, to which he replied at once that under the provisions of the Constitution he did not think he had the power to act as Governor. I asked him if he had a copy of the Constitution, and he went and got one. I read the article referred to and asked him to go with me to Mr. Branch's, that the question might be considered. As soon as we got there, he called the two or three lawyers present and we read the article over and saw that there was room for difference of opinion, and some one of the meeting suggested that the Attorney-General be asked to construe the article, and he was at once phoned, and said he wished to go to his office and consider the question.

While waiting for the Attorney-General, it was pointed out that in view of the heavy responsibility that would devolve upon Governor Elyson, the next day if the Attorney-General should give his opinion to the effect that he would not exercise the powers of the State (I think the correct suggestion), that he should hear what we had to say upon the merits of the cases.

"Thereupon a statement was made to the Governor to the following effect: That Floyd and Claude Allen were tried in the midst of great excitement, equal to that which prevailed at the time of Mrs. Surratt's trial for the assassination of President Lincoln; that evidence went to the jury as true which has since been shown untrue, and in later trials was not presented by the State; that without such evidence the later juries refused to convict of murder in the first degree; that of the seven or eight juries which had tried these cases, five refused to convict of murder in the first degree, and that the majority of the juries that convicted these two men, have petitioned for a new trial, and that in the trial of criminal cases under the express provisions of our Constitution, the jury system is relied upon to protect the rights of citizens of the State, while the presiding judge sees to it that the forms of the law are complied with, and, therefore, the practically unanimous verdict of these seven juries, after all the light of evidence had been developed, showed that there was at least a reasonable doubt of the guilt of these two men, to which under the law they were entitled, on the principle that the burden of proof is upon the Commonwealth to show premeditation and malice aforethought in order to obtain a conviction of murder in the first degree.

Governor's Responsibility.
 "It was further shown that if Governor Elyson should be the acting Governor, a heavy responsibility would be placed upon his shoulders, if he allowed these men to be executed without having first given proper consideration to their cases, because the Governor of Virginia could, or take such other steps as he saw proper to prevent the execution before he was clear in his own mind as to what was just and right.
 "To all that was said, Governor Elyson gave a ringing, but did not express himself in any way, even to the extent of asking one question, nor was there any discussion as to what particular steps he should take in the matter.

"Between 12 and 1 o'clock Attorney-General Williams came up and stated frankly that, as far as his investigation went, he did not think that Governor Elyson, under the Constitution, could act as Governor in the temporary absence of Governor Mann.
 "After some discussion, the Attorney-General agreed that he would investigate the question further and confer with Mr. Davis, the Assistant Attorney-General, and he is ready to give a final written opinion by 12 o'clock the next day provided that the Superintendent of the Penitentiary saw proper, in the exercise of his discretion under the orders of the court, to carry the sentence into effect between sunrise and sunset, to postpone the execution until after 12 o'clock.

Wood Postpones Execution.
 "Superintendent Wood was advised that this was the request of our meeting, that the execution should be postponed, and the Attorney-General wrote a letter to Superintendent Wood, which speaks for itself, and which I do not wish to attempt to quote from memory.
 "The Constitution of Virginia provides that a Lieutenant-Governor shall be elected with the same qualifications as the Governor, and that in certain contingencies, one of which being the inability of the Governor to exercise the powers and duties of his office, the said office shall devolve upon the Lieutenant-Governor, and this was the question submitted to the Attorney-

Don't Sell Your Health For a Few Cents

You may be offered a malt whiskey at a few cents per bottle less than Duffy's. It is well to save when you can, but you cannot get a MEDICINAL malt whiskey for less than Duffy's costs.

The REAL reasons why you can get malt whiskeys for less than Duffy's are the VERY reasons why those whiskeys CANNOT have value as medicine.

There are many malt tonics and malt whiskeys on the market, for the curative, strength-giving qualities of malted grain are well known to medical science. The demand is great. Many are anxious to profit by meeting it.

Supplying cheap malt whiskeys and tonics is easy to do, but making a malt whiskey having the well-known curative power of grain in medicinal form is a very different matter.

It can't be done easily or cheaply. Any one can make a malt whiskey, but few can afford the cost of the expensive processes necessary to make a TRUE medicinal malt whiskey—even if they had the required knowledge and experience.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

costs more to make because of the superior material employed in its production, resulting in curative properties not found in other whiskeys.

Many malt preparations are offered at a lower price in competition with Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. It is attractive to take "something just as good" and save a few cents difference in cost per bottle, but if you do you trade your chances for recovery of health for a few cents. The "just as good" kind CANNOT give you the medicinal aid you CAN get from Duffy's.

The Duffy Malt Whiskey Company, Rochester, N. Y.

General. My own view was and is that the whole scheme and plan of the State government in that it shall never be without a head able to discharge the duties of Governor under all contingencies; that the very term Lieutenant-Governor imports that he shall be Governor in all cases of "inability of the Governor so to act"; that this is true just as in the case of a captain of a military company being absent the lieutenant takes command of the company, and that the Governor, when beyond the borders of the State, cannot act officially, and this view I am satisfied will be sustained by the common sense of the people of the State, and by any reasonable and unprejudiced man. I am not making any hair-splitting distinctions made by sophistry.
 "Governor Elyson had not given any particular attention to these cases. It was unfair for him to be put in a position before the people of the State where it could be by any possibility be claimed that he shared the responsibility of the execution of these two men."

CONDITION UNCHANGED

Recovery of Pope is Proving to Be Very Slow.
 (Special Cable to The Times-Dispatch.)
 Rome, March 29.—It was said to-day that the Pope's condition remains unchanged, and is as better than he has been for several days. The Vatican physicians fear that it will be some time before the pontiff can be restored to his normal health.
 The setback given the Pope by the news of the death of Cardinal Respighi is held responsible for the slowness of his recovery.
